DEMOCRATIC POLITICIANS IN JOY RIOT AT NATIONAL CAPITOL

Celebrate Their Return to Power in the Lower House of Congress---Enthusiasm Mounts to Immeasurable Bounds When Full Import of Recent Victory is Realized.

SPECTATORS ADD TO GAIETY

Unable to Obtain Admission to Galleries, Crowd Rushes Doorkeepers and Invades Floor of Chamber. Harmon and Bryan Pull Off Impromptu Stunt That Proves Hit of Session—Speaker Clark Tells What Party Is Expected to Do.

Washington, April 5.—After the close of the opening session of the new congress, one of the Democrats said: "We Democrats of the house acted just like children. The Democratic landslide occurred last November. It has been known for months that Champ Clark would be the speaker; the committees have been named; the rules promulgated and the cut-and-dried program discounted long in advance, and yet when all the anticipated good things came true, "just like spring was off," the box opened and the candy was in plain view, we performed like children and scared up genuine enthusiasm."

And this same spectator, his voice hoarse from yelling and his fingers still gripping the American flag raised in common with every one of his colleagues, had waved wildly when the serene Champ was sworn in, walked away shaking his head over the puzzle. The scenes and incidents in the house were reminiscent of a Democratic convention.

The usual pink-and-blue gallery cards of admission to the reserved galleries of the house, which are not at all necessary to secure entry on ordinary days, but which, framed in silver or gilt are mighty popular as souvenirs in the alfalfa sections, had no face value. They were temporarily replaced by plain, printed cards, of which somebody had thoughtfully issued 400 in excess of the seats in all the galleries. This did not tend to heighten the good nature of Democrats who had come to town to see Uncle Joe and those other arrogant Republicans take to the back seats and who, clutching their precious admission slips, were pleasantly informed by a Republican doorkeeper soon to lose his job, that they had not a chance in the world of seeing the big event.

Traveled Hundreds of Miles.

Some of these folks who had traveled hundreds of miles to see the show became almost desperate. They wandered around the upper floor corridors, reading their worthless admission tickets and gnawing their nails. Finally most of them trotted down stairs and congregated just outside the main east and west doors of the chamber, where there was at least a chance of inspecting the back hair of a triumphant Democrat and glimpsing Caleb Powers, of Kentucky feud fame; Victor Berger, the lone Socialist; Jim Mann, the great objector, or Uncle Joe Cannon, the scepterless; here they remained, impatient, even furious, within sound but not in sight of the lists on this greatest of Democratic field days, until a particularly loud crash of applause, punctuated with ear-splitting rebel yells, rattled the painted skylights of the chamber. That was too much for them. There was a rush through the swinging doors banged open. The guards, flattened against the walls of the entrance hallways, were powerless, and from all three sides the common people, flushed, disheveled and triumphant, poured into the chamber.

Another interesting incident in the house before the body was called to order was the meeting of William J. Bryan of Nebraska and Governor Judson Harmon of Ohio. These two distinguished Democrats have been in Washington for several days, stopping at the same hotel and displaying no marked desire to get together, but they met in the center aisle on the Democratic side, put out their hands simultaneously, shook long and hard, and smiling chatted amid the uproar.

Cannon Leads Applause.

For uproar there was when the two men came together. Uncle Joe grinned from ear to ear, jumped from his seat and led the applause on the Republican side. The Democrats, several of whom still retain the belief that the peerless leader is the greatest man who ever stepped into boot leather, did not need anyone to start them. After the enthusiasm had abated in some degree Mr. Bryan and Governor Harmon took positions about six feet apart in the aisle, while most of the Democrats on hand filed by and gave them greetings.

In his speech accepting the speakership, Mr. Clark outlined the Democratic policies as follows:

First, an honest and intelligent revision of the tariff downward; second, a resolution submitting to the states for ratification a constitutional amendment providing for the election of United States senators by popular vote; third, changes in the rules of the house necessary for the consideration of measures for the public good; fourth, economy in public expenditures; fifth, publication of campaign contributions and disbursements before election; sixth, admission of Arizona and New Mexico as states. In conclusion he stated that he serves his party best who serves his country best.

Sherwood Offers First Bill.

Washington, April 5.—To General Sherwood (Dem., O.), one of the oldest members in the house and a veteran of the civil war, fell the honor of introducing the first bill in the house. It was the "dollar-a-day" pension bill, originally devised by Sherwood. It became H. R. 1.

Flint Socialists Victorious.

Flint, Mich., April 5.—Voters of this city elected John A. Menton, Socialist, mayor by a plurality of 500 over E. T. Alwood, Republican.

Thomas Jefferson, His Home, Shaft That Marks His Grave.

Thomas Jefferson, third president of the United States and founder of the Democratic party, was born in 1743 at Shadwell, Va., and died on the Fourth of July, 1826, at Monticello, Va. He was the author of the Declaration of Independence and of the Virginia statute for religious freedom. He was secretary of state from 1790 to 1793, vice president from 1797 to 1801, in which year he was elected president as the candidate of the Democratic-Republican party, which he founded. He served two terms as president. Jefferson lived for fifty-six years on his Monticello estate, which he came near losing, but managed to save for his daughter by sacrificing a part of it. The one hundred and sixty-eighth anniversary of his birth will be observed on April 13 in many cities. The National League of Democratic Clubs will hold a banquet in Indianapolis.

SENATE PASSES THE RUSSELL BILL

Is Known as Central Board of Control Measure, But as Amended Does Not Conform to Gov. Harmon's Ideas. Three Democrats Go Over to Republican Side.

HARMON MAY REFUSE TO SIGN

Although Classed as Administration Proposition, It Contains Features at Variance With Governor's Ideas. Stockwell Direct Nominations Bill Defeated In Senate—Extra Session Proposed If Solons Quit Before Program Is Carried Out.

Columbus, O., April 5.—The senate passed the Russell central board of control bill, already passed by the house, providing for a single board to manage state institutions, excepting state universities, the Lima State hospital and the Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' home at Xenia. Although a Harmon measure, it is not certain that the governor will sign it, in view of an amendment knocking out the requirement that municipalities, townships and counties should purchase supplies from the board.

The senate killed the Stockwell bill which would have provided for direct nominations of all state officers. Senator Johnson of Hamilton county changed his vote from "no" to "yes" and Senator Stockwell, the author, changed his vote from "yes" to "no" so that he might later move a reconsideration. Senator Deaton of Champaign county immediately moved reconsideration and it was lost, thereby killing the bill.

Author Charges Bad Faith.

Before this was accomplished, however, Stockwell charged that Senators Keller and Deaton of Lucas and Senator Huffman of Butler had broken pre-election pledges by voting against the bill.

The senate passed the Browder house bill taking away from State Supervisor of Public Schools Zeller the right to reappoint state school inspectors. The date of the appointments is changed so that they will be made by Zeller's Democratic successor.

The house in committee of the whole devoted the entire session to a discussion of the Winters public utilities bill.

Democrats close to Governor Harmon are predicting that he will call a special session of the legislature if the present legislature adjourns May 11, as now proposed, without carrying out all or a big part of the Democratic party's platform pledges.

New Legislative Apportionment.

Columbus, O., April 5.—There will be 125 members of the house in the first session of the next decade, 127 in the second session, 128 in the third session, 124 in the fourth session, and 125 in the fifth session, according to apportionment figures for the lower branch of the general assembly announced by Secretary of State Graves. The present apportionment calls for 113 members. There are two vacancies now in the house of 115 members.

Liberals Refuse to Quit.

Columbus, O., April 5.—It was announced in the House afternoon session that five members of the Liberal legislative bloc, who had threatened to resign if their purposes in regard to state aid for the Liberal arts colleges were not carried out, will be kept in their places. The bill, which was introduced by Representative Cunningham, of Ashtabula, providing for a state aid of $ per year, has been laid aside for the present, and it is understood that if it is finally decided to call a special session of the legislature the Liberal bloc will be given a specific promise that their votes will be asked for the measure regardless of the vote in the townships.

HE CAME BACK

Argue Change Of Venue

Cox Case Comes Up Before Judge Dickson Today.

Cincinnati, O., April 5.—Common Pleas Judge William L. Dickson was designated by Presiding Judge Hunt of the common pleas court to sit in the perjury trial of George B. Cox, indicted Republican leader, and hear all preliminary questions connected with the case.

Cox's attorneys had raised an objection to Judge Hunt acting in the case, although Hunt is now assigned to the criminal court room. Hunt therefore designated Dickson, who will take up the work in the criminal division at the expiration of Hunt's term. The question of the validity of the change of venue in the case is being argued this afternoon before Judge Dickson, this being the first question to be determined by the new judge.

It is the contention of Prosecutor Hunt that the state has the same privilege of swearing off judges as the defense has, and that if the state desires, it can prevent Dickson from assuming charge. This step, it was reported, is being considered.

Pike County Grand Jury Gets Busy

Waverly, O., April 5.—The Pike county grand jury, which has been conducting a seven days' session, devoted mainly to an investigation of the conduct of last fall's election, rendered a partial report, returning 21 true bills. It is announced that some election bribery indictments are included.

CHICAGO

Returns Decisive Majority

Harrison Is Elected Mayor for the Fifth Term

PLURALITY IS ABOVE 17,000

Reform Element Which Was Expected to Elect Professor Charles E. Merriam Failed to Turn Out in Sufficient Numbers to Accomplish Result, While Dunne Democrats, Supposed to Be Unfriendly to Harrison, Delivered the Goods at Polls.

Chicago, April 5.—Chicago voters for the fifth time elected Carter H. Harrison mayor of the Windy City, his plurality this time being in excess of 17,000. His opponent, Charles E. Merriam, was knifed by Republican and Democratic, while the expected defection of Dunne Democrats from the ranks did not materialize.

Mayor Harrison's defeat by Alderman O'Toole for alderman of the 2nd ward was the big feature of the municipal election.

In the Democratic wards Harrison piled up his record-breaking majorities. In the Republican wards Mr. Merriam's showing was disappointing. He did not run nearly so well as Fred A. Busse four years ago. This was true in the so-called "reform" wards, where he was expected to sweep all before him.

Discusses His Defeat.

Professor Charles E. Merriam, in discussing his defeat, said: "I am satisfied with the fight my friends made. We presented the issue of honest and progressive government and the voters have replied. I congratulate Mr. Harrison on his victory and wish him well in his administration."

Incomplete returns indicate that Harrison carried with him the rest of the city ticket, Francis D. Connery for city clerk, up for re-election, and Henry Stuckert for city treasurer. Unofficial figures give Harrison (Dem.), 177,368; Merriam (Rep.), 160,276; Rodriguez (Socialist), 22,294; Brubaker (Pro.), 2,977.

The Republicans probably will have 34 members of the new council and the Democrats 38. This is a gain of four Republicans over the election of a year ago.

Socialists Meet Stunning Defeat

Old Parties at Milwaukee Combine Against Seidel Oranization.

Milwaukee, April 5.—The Socialist candidates for judicial and school board officers were defeated by the combining of the old parties in non-partisan tickets. The Socialists tried to elect a circuit judge, a civil judge and two members of the school board. Judge W. P. Halsey was re-elected circuit judge by 8,000 to 10,000 over J. C. Kleist, Socialist. The Socialists made the campaign on the issue of the Catholic church participating in the election.

Elect Woman Mayor.

Hunnewell, Kan., April 5.—Owing to the gallantry of the male population of this town Mrs. Ella Wilson is the new mayor. She was the candidate for the office on a reform ticket and the result of the election gave her and O. A. Kers a tie vote. It was suggested that they draw lots, but the man decided that Mrs. Wilson deserved the office.

WANTS MAMMOTH FERTILIZER FACTORY TO QUIT BUSINESS

Daniel T. McLean Files $12,345 Damage Suit Against The M. Hamm Fertilizer Co. and Asks That Permanent Restraining Order be Issued—Sequel to Former Suit—Says Damage Will Reach $25,000 if Firm Continues Operations as Heretofore.

Another big damage suit was filed in Common Pleas court this morning by Daniel T. McLean against The M Hamm Fertilizer Company, asking judgment for $12,345 and a permanent injunction against the company to prohibit them from operating the factory on the present location and in the same manner.

This suit is a sequel to the suit which is now pending in the Circuit court, in which Mr. McLean sued the M. Hamm Company for $1682, and in which case he was awarded $800 by the jury, but which was reduced to $600, which Mr. McLean had virtually agreed to accept. However the defendants carried the suit to the Circuit court where it is still pending.

In the suit filed this morning the damages are raised many thousands of dolairs, and the suit is of broader scope and farther reaching than the old suit.

The plaintiff alleges that the defendants are owners of a plant for the manufacture of commercial fertilizers south of this city, and that the tract of land owned by said defendants consists of 19 acres, and that his property, 297 acres, surrounds the plant on three sides, and that the escaping fumes and gases have damaged his crops and land to the extent above mentioned, and that unless the company is compelled to abstain from the present method of manufacture, 100 acres of ground valued at $200 per acre, will be entirely ruined, entailing a loss of fully $25,000.

The plaintiff sets for the amount of corn, wheat, pasture, etc., ruined by the escaping gases each year, and alleges that the company has wilfully, and maliciously allowed the damage to continue, making no effort to stop the deadly fumes from blighting growing crops, etc.

Two causes for action are cited. First, the damage done since 1907, which is estimated at $2345, and second, the damage done plaintiff because of cost of prosecution and general damage to his farm, which he estimates at $10,000.

According to Mr. McLean's petition gases of acid nature are greatly damage crops for a great distance, and its odor and fumes make habitation in the neighborhood almost impossible, and make life miserable in general.

In addition to the fumes killing the crops, he alleges that through the pollution of a stream running through the land, has caused him damage.

If the plaintiff would win the suit it will mean that the big Hamm Fertilizer plant must close down and move to another location, or use a different method of manufacturing its goods, in which there is no odor.

As the fertilizer plant has been the source of much complaint from residents of the southern end of town, there is great interest in the suit filed this morning.

Says Great Lawyers Are In Pay Of The Trusts

Spokane, Wash., April 5.—Richard A. Ballinger, who recently resigned as Secretary of the Interior after a stormy administration, was the guest of honor at a banquet given by the Spokane Bar association recently. The meeting was the most representative of the legal profession ever held in this city. In responding to the ovation tendered him Mr. Ballinger paid a tribute to the western men as a whole, and to western lawyers in particular. He said in part: "The men of our profession are too prone to look on the material side, and yet at the beginnings of this republic the lawyers shaped its policies and in the angels of constructive statesmanship the great lawyers sacrificed time, means and energy for the permanence, protection and advancement of the republic. Many of the great lawyers of today are in the pay of the great commercial organizations of the country and are incapable of helping their communities and nation to proceed along safe, sane and stable lines. There can be no stability of government unless its immutable and fundamental principles are supported by the people.

COMPANY M MOVES INTO SPLENDID NEW HOME

Spacious Quarters in Karney Block on East Court Street Now Occupied by Our Soldier Boys---Ideal Location With Mammoth Drill Floor and an Abundance of Room for Officers and Men.

Every officer and private of Company M, Fourth regiment, O. N. G., is happy, for after two years of life in a cramped armory they have an abundance of room in the new Karney block on East Court street, where they moved yesterday from their old home on West Court street.

The new armory is more in keeping with the company which now occupies it for a home, as it is on the second floor, easy of access and an ideal place in every particular.

At the head of the stairway is the large roomy drill floor, 44 feet in width and 71 feet in length, giving ample room for all ordinary drills and movements of the entire company. It is such a room as Captain Ramey has dreamed of for his men, but one he had no idea of occupying until a few weeks ago when the opportunity presented itself, and he quickly took advantage of it.

On the left at the head of the stairway are the officers' rooms, while the property room is directly over the stairway fronting on Court street. On the other side is a spacious room for the men. This room is equipped with toilet rooms, shower bath, hot and cold water, and other conveniences which will insure cleanliness and sanitation.

Every arrangement that will be for the general good of Company M, will be made, so far as possible, and it is believed the new location will be of untold benefit to this company, of which the city of Washington is justly proud.

It is earnestly hoped that the next time Company M moves, it will be to a new home entirely their own, constructed by the state. A little united effort should bring this to the city.

"THE HOUSE THAT MAKES GOOD"

Refuses Immense Sum For An Old Strad Violin

H. A. Wyman, Local Musician and Electrician, Accidentally Secures an Instrument, Formerly the Property of an Italian, and Which Now Commands Princely Sum---Instrument Was Made in 1687.

Violin connoisseurs will be interested in learning that there is one man in Washington who possesses a genuine Stradivari, for which he has refused $1,800.

The owner of this rare instrument, more priceless with each passing year, is Mr. H. A. Wyman, with the Washington Gas and Electric Light Company, a member of the orchestra of Grace church Sunday school, as well as the Wonderland orchestra.

Some time ago Mr. Wyman bought the instrument, apparently old, and of a beautiful tone, from a miner of Old Virginia. This miner told him that an Italian travelling musician had stopped one night at the home of his grandfather in Virginia and had played for them on the old violin. In the night he was taken ill and died.

No one knew anything of the man nor from whence he came, beyond the fact that he was a foreigner, so the old violin had lain neglected, its sweet tone unheard for years; was handed down to the grandson and by him sold to Mr. Wyman.

The violin has all the marks of old age and in the inside is the name "Antonious Stradivari" and date 1687, with a text in Latin.

There are so many clever imitations of old violins and the violin market so drugged with so-called "Stradivari" and "Amati" that Mr. Wyman was not at all sure that his find was genuine.

He made a trip to Cincinnati and took the instrument to the music firm of Wurlitzer & Co. It was there carefully examined and pronounced a genuine "Strad".

Many of Mr. Wyman's friends encouraged him to sell it and he has already refused a number of tempting offers. So far he values the rare old violin beyond the price in gold it would bring.

The great violin makers of the 16th and 17th centuries attained much high perfection in their instruments that they have never been equalled and if Mr. Wyman's violin was, as authorities assure him, made by this master, he has indeed a treasure worth keeping.

JR. O. U. A. M. HOLD SOCIAL SESSION

The Junior Order United American Mechanics held a social session that was a great success Tuesday night at the Red Men's hall.

There was a very large attendance the Good Hope order also being represented.

Mr. George Harper was chairman of the evening's program, which was particularly pleasing and passed off splendidly.

Dr. H. M. Hughes made a fine address explaining the sterling principles and purposes of the order in eloquent display.

The music was excellent. The Wonderland orchestra played one brilliant number after another, and a quartet, Misses Fannie and Mabel Jones, Mr. and Mrs. George Stolzenberg, was heartily encored.

Messrs. Smith, Binnes and Stevens sang "Meet Me Tonight in Dreamland" effectively.

A pleasurable social hour, with tempting refreshments, followed the program. During the supper the orchestra played and Mr. Kneisley added two beautiful violin solos.

Novel Veils

One of the newest designs for spring veils is that of chenille dot laces, on a foundation of strong net. Designs of birds and butterflies are also carried out in chenille on the new coarse mesh veilings.

A MONUMENT FUND.

The meanest man in town having died and been duly buried, a band of his late acquaintances and neighbors were discussing the kind of party he was.

"We ought to raise a fund to build him a monument," one man suggested.

"Kats!" chorused the crowd in protest. "Who'd give anything to build him a monument?"

Are careless in the care of the skin. Do you know that the skin is made up of innumerable pores which give off the poisonous matter of the body and should be kept open and clean.

Bathing is most excellent to keep the skin healthful, but MANOLINE helps wonderfully. Use after bathing before using the drying towel. A small quantity covers a large skin surface, and note the skin improvement through its use in a short time.

There are 360 drops of Manoline in a tube, costs 25c instead of one or two dollars. Money back if you think not as represented in every respect.

OTTO RINGLING

Otto Ringling, the master of the mighty circuses, is dead. He breathed his last in New York Friday while thousands packed Madison Square Garden and applauded every feature of the gigantic circus of Ringling Brothers.

The name of Ringling to the present generation of American youngsters is scarcely second to that of Washington and Napoleon. The circus with its smell of saw dust, canvass, wild animals, the fluttering flags and the loud music of the bands and the spangles of the actors, has never lost its charms for the youth of the world, and to tell the real truth about it, always attracts the older, wiser heads just as much as it does the young.

It is only twenty years ago since Ringling Brothers' show "abandoned the road" and adopted the railroads as means of transportation. It is scarcely a score of years since circuses from the Barnum and Bailey and the Sells-Forepaugh shows were events in important towns and cities, and "Ringlings" was traveling by wagon to the smaller villages.

But the five ambitious boys who started from Baraboo, Wis., three-score years ago with a lame horse, a blind horse, a tent and a beaver, knew the circus game from A to Z. Now the great Barnum and Bailey and Sells-Forepaugh shows take second place to and are controlled by the Ringlings.

Otto Ringling, the oldest of the brothers, has always been accounted the business head and the nerve force which builded this gigantic circus property, now worth millions.

Few people realize the immense amount of money it requires to finance an enterprise of this magnitude and few realize the millions it requires to keep such an enterprise going.

As in wars or large governmental affairs, people know that it requires "a lot of money" but beyond that few go.

The man who died Friday in New York realized all this and planned and installed the marvelous system for which the Ringling shows were justly famous the whole world over.

Having builded the great Ringling show until it was "positively the biggest and best shown on earth" he next turned his attention toward consolidation with the two other "big shows."

He worked out the plan, lived to see it a success but the strain proved too much for his constitution—it cost him his life.

After living to completely realize his boyhood dream and risen from the head performer in a show to which an admission of ten pins was charged to the master of the greatest show on earth and the greatest the world ever saw, he surrendered his life.

He was buried Sunday at Baraboo, Wis., where, as a boy, he first played circus, and later as a man, quartered during the winter season the immense exhibition.

As is always true in connection with a successful life, there is a lesson and a good lesson in the life of Otto Ringling.

By perseverance, by strict application, day and night, to the work he set himself to accomplish, he achieved unbounded success. No honorable task is impossible of accomplishment when earnest application and determination, coupled with a reasonable amount of ability are jointly enlisted in the fight. It was true with Otto Ringling, it has been true of others, and it will be true of still others of the present generation and of the generations yet unborn.

Without capital, without influence, except as his abilities commanded it, from the humblest to the greatest of circus men in thirty short years.

NO NEED TO DIE.

Dr. Chalmers Mitchell of the Zoological society of London, in a lecture on "Problems of Animals in Captivity" has just recently advanced some startling theories.

In a lecture before the Royal Institution recently, he said that it was extremely doubtful if a natural death ever occurs in any kind of an animal, man included. He supports Metchnikiff's theory that the changes of senility are the result of external accidents, of the poisons of various diseases or unsanitary conditions. The learned doctor believes that free from outward contamination, man would always live to be over one hundred years old and then perish as a result of the slow accumulation of waste matters in his tissue.

Here is indeed, a theory which will give to the spotless town crusaders a new and powerful impetus in the work.

If this theory proves sound there is positively no limit to the good which the worthy people who constantly jab our municipal persons with a short order to clean up may not go.

Think of it. Not only reduce the death rate materially, but positively do away with any rate at all.

The support urged by Dr. Mitchell is forceful too. He removes the limit from the game entirely.

And even the little Colonel Roosevelt said about Mexico he was careful to explain was merely as a private citizen—he wants it to have order and justice, both rare south of the border of the United States.

Chauncey Depew says he now spends his time trying to see the "golden stairs", realizing that he'll soon have to climb 'em. Gee, that's some sort of a record reform while-you-wait stunt, isn't it?

President Addresses National Body Briefly

In Short, Pithy Message Devoted Entirely to Canadian Reciprocity, Taft Urges the Acceptance of a Satisfactory Trade Agreement With "Kanucks."

TELLS OF THE NEGOTIATIONS

Canada. This agreement was the culmination of earnest efforts extending over a period of nearly a year on the part of both governments to effect a trade arrangement which should be acceptable to the people of both countries and would strengthen the friendly relations now existing.

Text Public Paper.

"The agreement in its proper form, its exact wording, was made public simultaneously in Washington and Ottawa. Where the original text was in English and French, the official translation of the French text was made by the translation bureau of the Canadian government. The agreement with the accompanying correspondence and data explaining its purpose and its scope has been known to the people through the message transmitted to congress at once. Immediately after the opening of the session I urged the careful study of the agreement by the representatives of the people, that the interested details of the agreement might be known to the people and receive their approval. This approval has been strengthened by further consideration of the terms of the agreement in all their particulars. The volume of support which has developed shows that its broadly national scope is fully appreciated and is responsive to the popular will.

House Passed Bill.

"The house of representatives of the sixty-first congress, after the full text of the arrangement with all the details in regard to the different provisions had been before it, as they were before the American people, passed a bill confirming the agreement as negotiated and as transmitted to congress. The measure failed of action in the senate.

"In my transmitting message of the 26th of January I fully set forth the character of the agreement and emphasized its appropriateness and necessity as a response to the unofficial needs of the people of two countries as well as its common advantages. I now lay that message, and the reciprocal trade agreement, as integral part of the present message before the Sixty-second congress, and again invite earnest attention to the considerations therein expressed.

Bows to Public Sentiment.

"I am constrained in deference to popular sentiment and with a reasonable sense of my duty to the great masses of our people whose welfare is involved, to urge upon your consideration early action on this agreement. In concluding the negotiations the representatives of the two countries bound themselves to use their utmost efforts to bring about the tariff changes provided for in the agreement by concurrent legislation at Washington and Ottawa. I have felt it my duty, therefore, not to acquiesce in relegation of action until the opening of the congress in December, but to use my constitutional prerogative and convoke the Sixty-second congress in extra session in order that there shall be no break in continuity in considering and acting upon this important subject.

"WILLIAM H. TAFT.

YOU'LL GET DAR AFTER WHILE

Keep on struggling when de water gits deep,
Keep on working when you wanter go to sleep,
Keep on getting it you have to creep,
An' you'll git dar after while.

Keep on prayin' by de water side,
Keep on repent de things you tried,
Keep on praising Jehue by your own side,
An' you'll git dar after while.

Keep on laughin' when de folks all frown,
Keep on cheerin' when dey think you's down,
Keep on smilin' while the world goes round,
An' you'll git dar after while.

Keep on carrin' all your troubles to de Lord,
Keep on trustin' in the promises of God,
Keep on hoping though you're under de rod,
An' you'll git dar after while.

Keep on marchin' though you don't understand,

WORLD'S MOST PERFECT 1910 EAR OF CORN

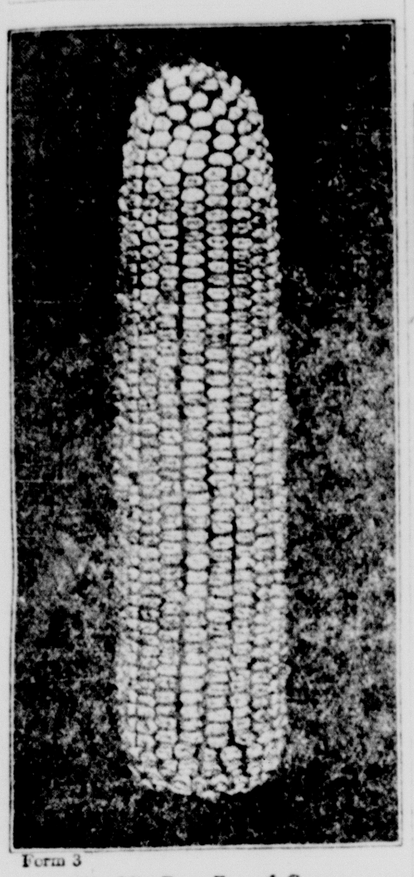
R. A. James, of Charleston, Ill., has the proud distinction of having grown the best ear of corn in all the 3,125,713,600 bushels of last year's bumper crop. At the National Corn



Form 3
World's Best Ear of Corn for 1910

Show recently held at Columbus, O. this gentleman was awarded the W. K. Kellogg National Corn Trophy, donated in 1909 by W. K. Kellogg, president of the Kellogg Toasted Corn Flake Co., of Battle Creek, Mich.

Thousands of ears of corn from all parts of the country and of all varieties were entered in the competition. The selection of the grand champion Sweepstakes and the award of the trophy were made on general points of superiority.

The ear of corn grown by Mr. James is of Reid's Yellow Dent variety. It is 10 inches long, 7½ inches in circumference, and has 20 rows of kernels, 8 to the inch in the row, average 5-8 of an inch in depth, and 5-16 of an inch in width. It is indeed a very correct type of yellow dent corn.

Mr. James, the winner, is a man who has given careful study to corn culture, and who has achieved his success as a grand champion winner only by years of hard work and painstaking seed selection and careful breeding from season to season.

Form 1
The W. K. Kellogg National Corn Trophy

Illinois growers are especially elated over the result for the reason that this is the first time in four years that the honors have been wrested from the state of Indiana. Last year's champion ear, the best winner of the trophy, was grown by Mr. Fred C. Palin, of Newtown, Ind. It was also of Reid's Yellow Dent variety, crossed with Alexander Gold Standard. Last year's prize winner is the most perfectly formed ear of the two, though it requires a careful judge to distinguish the points of superiority.

The trophy awarded to Mr. James was made by Tiffany, of New York, at a cost of $1,000. It is made of Sterling silver, bronze and enamels, and is a truly artistic creation. It stands 30 inches in height. The trophy is offered for annual competition until won twice by the same grower.

Demon Wanted To Kill Pope

Italian, However, Contented Himself With Shot at Priest.

Rome, April 5.—A man subsequently identified as Pietro Pesanti, and thought to be insane, entered St. Peters armed with a revolver and, without warning, fired upon the canons, who were engaged in the recital of the breviary, "In Choir." The shot went wild and the man was arrested. He fought savagely and slightly wounded a policeman.

He stated to the police that he is neither a Socialist nor an anarchist, but an anti-Clerical, who hated all religions and priests. He said he came to Rome with the fixed intention of killing the pope. At first it was his intention to secure a place as a gardener in the vatican grounds and await an opportunity to shoot his holiness as he was taking a walk in the gardens. After thinking it over he realized the impossibility of this plan or of the alternative of reaching the papal apartments owing to the strict surveillance maintained by the vatican guards. In view of all this he decided to kill a priest.

INSTRUMENTS DESIGNED BY SPECIALIST DR. R. M. HUGHEY

Will be Exhibited and Demonstrated in Baltimore and New York Hospitals. Received With Favor in Europe—Manufacturing Business Will Likely Result From the Inventions.

Dr. R. M. Hughey left Wednesday morning for several weeks of special study in the Johns Hopkins Hospital of Baltimore, Md., and the hospitals of New York. He also expects to visit the Phipp's Institution of Philadelphia, where he will make research into the scientific treatment employed in this leading tubercular institution for the curing of the dread white plague.

Dr. Hughey has recognized standing as a leading specialist in eye, throat and ear, in this section of the state and has also devoted considerable study to the subject of tuberculosis.

Through special courses in the leading hospitals of Europe and this country, he has kept abreast of the most advanced methods and discoveries in his profession and few specialists are more thoroughly in touch with progressive medical science.

In addition to his extensive study, Dr. Hughey is endowed with considerable inventive genius, which he has employed in the making of instruments beneficial to his own ear and throat treatments.

Two years ago, upon his last visit to the hospitals of London, Eng., Dr. Hughey exhibited these inventions and found that they met with decided approval. Specialists in this country have also approved them and Dr. Hughey expects to demonstrate and introduce these instruments in the hospitals of Baltimore and New York. If they are received with the same favor that was accorded them in London he will then put them on the market for the use of the fraternity.

Pie In Art.

An artist in Chicago tells of a lady in that town, who, with her maid went to purchase a still-life picture for her dining-room.

She selected a canvas on which were painted a bunch of flowers, a pie cut in two, and a roll, and was about to pay twenty-five dollars for it when her maid approached to whisper in her ear.

"Excuse me, ma'am," said the servant, "but you are making a bad bargain. I saw a picture very much like this sold the other day for fifteen dollars."

"And was it as good as this?"

"Better, ma'am. There was a good deal more pie in it."—March Lippincott's.

Trouble Comes In Bunches For Allen

Alleged Kidnaper Wanted By Police of Many Cities.

Columbus, O., April 5.—John E. Allen, alias A. J. Edwards, arrested here on a charge of attempting to defraud a hotelkeeper, is a very much wanted man, according to reports received by local police authorities.

Legislators (Ind.) authorities said they wanted him for bigamy. The Indianapolis police said they wanted him for embezzlement and "jumping a bond." At Frankfort, Ind., he was reported to have stolen diamonds. In Louisville (Ky.) police came in with a request to find him on a forgery charge. Chicago men reported that they wanted him for arrying a confidence game.

His arrest here followed his arrest in Mrs. Emilie V. Allen, of Hartford, Ct., who with a child he claimed as his niece, was arrested in Columbus, April 2. Mrs. Allen said she was the divorced wife of Allen and the child was his daughter. She said he had kidnaped her from her home in Hartford, Ct., and taken her through the southern part of the United States and Canada. The scene which ended his arrest was perfect.

When Allen was arrested early in the morning he was in a room with a woman said to be a girl of fifteen years. He was and Mrs. Allen married here at Frankfort, Ind., three weeks ago. All sorts of stories came out and took her home.

Willie—I'm drawing a picture o' God.

Johnson Sinking End In Sight

NOT SO SLOW AFTER ALL.

During a conversation between an Irishman and a Jew, the Irishman asked how it was that the Jews were so wise.

"Because," said the Jew, "we eat a certain kind of fish, and he offered to sell me for ten dollars.

After paying his money, the Irishman received a small dried fish. He bit into it, then exclaimed: "Why, this is only a smoked herring."

"See?" said the Jew. "You are getting wise already."

March Lippincott's.

A NEW INTERPRETATION.

The father of a Germantown family had given him a ten-cent piece and a quarter of a dollar, telling him that he might pol change the coins on the church collection plate.

A little later the boy came home with the ten cents he had given.

"Well, Fred," exclaimed the lecturer, "at first it seemed to me that I ought to pay the quarter of the plate, but one in three I remembered the saying, 'The Lord loveth a cheerful giver,' and I knew I could give the ten cents a great deal more cheerfully. So I put that in."

BAD LUCK

"Well, Fido, I suppose you are anticipating a fine Christmas dinner over at Uncle Jack's."

"Oh, the whole family are vegetarians!"

A Good Milk Test.

If a polished knitting needle is dipped into a pail of milk and withdrawn, to be held upright, some of the milk will adhere to the needle if the fluid is pure. Even the smallest amount of water will keep any of the milk from adhering.—Indianapolis Star.

Storm Hits South In Many Spots

Meager Reports Indicate Heavy Loss of Life.

New Orleans, April 5—Badly crippled wires are holding back news of what is believed to have been one of the most destructive storms that has swept the south in years. Alabama, Mississippi, Florida, Louisiana and eastern Texas are the most severe sufferers. Along the gulf the damage is known to have been serious, and while few authentic reports of loss of life have been received, the number of casualties probably will be large.

Selma, Ala., was cut off, and only broken messages received in Montgomery reported that a cyclone passed near there.

At Gulfport, Miss., a trainman was killed trying to flag a passenger train which was in the act of crashing into a boxcar blown across its track. At Gulfport the steeple of the Methodist church was wrecked and the great buildings of the Gulfport oil mills and the Naval Stores company were unroofed, allowing the tropical rain to flood their contents.

Storm warnings had been issued but were not received in time by many vessels, it is feared. The British steamer Hannah M. Reid is in distress off the Florida reefs, and a relief has been sent.

Boy Is Locked In Car

Convict Takes Revenge on Son of His Prosecutor.

Philadelphia, April 5.—To keep a vow of vengeance which he made against Assistant District Attorney Joseph P. Rogers, a former convict who claims himself as "8643-C 252," enticed 12-year-old Bernard Rogers, a nephew of the lawyer, to the Baltimore & Ohio railroad yards here over a week ago and locked him up in an empty boxcar.

This is the statement on a postal card which presumably was written by the former jailbird, and which was received by Cornelius P. Rogers, a brother of the assistant district attorney, with whom the missing lad lived.

The police immediately began a searching investigation and every effort is being made to discover the location of the car in which the letter says the boy was placed.

NEWS of the STATE

Robs Girl of Savings.

Coshocton, O., April 5.—Local police are looking for "Professor Warren," for whom a warrant has been sworn out by Miss Grace Leavengood, charging him with swindling her out of $190. The wife of a prominent business man is charged with having been an accomplice of Warren, and she was placed under arrest, but released when she made good the girl's loss. Her name is withheld by the police. The girl had lost a lover and sought the clairvoyant's aid. He exchanged her envelope of greenbacks for one containing tissue paper.

Murderer Goes to Mansfield.

Columbus, O., April 5.—Earl Lichtenwalter, freshman in the law college of the Ohio State university, was sentenced to the state reformatory by Judge C. M. Rogers of the criminal court for the killing of Ray Golden, whom he met on Grant avenue, just below Town street, last fall, while accompanying Golden's prepossessing wife home from her work at the Virginia hotel at midnight.

Condemned Man Is Joker.

Columbus, O., April 5.—After Warden Jones of the penitentiary had finished reading to Charles Justice, colored, a formal notification that the date of his execution had been set for April 28, the prisoner laughed and told the warden that the news was a trifle stale for he had read it in the papers about a week ago. Justice killed a Greene county farmer who surprised him while stealing chickens.

Admits Killing Child.

Dayton, O., April 5.—Bertha Bennauer, 22, was brought to police headquarters here from her home in Greene county, and to the authorities tearfully admitted that she had murdered her own child, which was discovered by boys fishing in the canal here. She named Fred Sweney, a prominent Greene county farmer, as an accomplice, and detectives later placed him under arrest.

Ten Years For Strader.

Columbus, O., April 5.—Alfred Strader, convicted by a jury in criminal court under two counts of an indictment charging him with unlawfully having dynamite in his possession and with dynamiting the south side barns during the strike last summer, was sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Rogers after his motion for a new trial had been overruled.

Attempts to Kill Wife.

Norwalk, O., April 5.—Roger Palmer of Bellevue was brought to jail, charged with attempting to murder his wife. He cut her throat with a razor and afterward cut a big gash in his own throat. Alleged infatuation of his wife for another man caused Palmer to be jealous.

Ohio Woman Killed in South.

Coshocton, O., April 5.—Word was received here of the killing of Mrs. J. W. McDowell, wife of Colonel M. Dowell of Gainesville, Fla., when a tree was blown over, striking her automobile. She was a sister of the wife of Major W. W. Cassingham of Coshocton.

Saloon Quarrel Fatal.

Columbus, O., April 5.—As the result of a quarrel in a saloon here Saturday, Joseph Stone, colored, 25, was shot and killed by Joseph Bell and William Fleming, colored, received a bullet in his breast. Fleming is held by the police for the grand jury.

HE PUNISHED GRANT.

The Cadet Was Guilty of Dismounting Without Leave.

While a student at West Point U. S. Grant excelled in mathematics and horsemanship. He jumped his horse over a bar five feet six inches high, which made a record for the academy and a close second to the highest jump ever recorded in America. He received little honor for some of his efforts, however, notably in the case recalled by Nicholas Smith in "Grant, the Man of Mystery." But perhaps the humor of it reconciled him.

The riding master was one Hershberger, "an amusing sort of tyrant," and on one occasion, whether seriously or as a joke, he determined to "take down" the young cadet.

At the exercise Grant was mounted on a powerful but vicious brute that the cadets fought shy of and was put at leaping the bar.

The bar was placed higher and higher as he came round the ring till it passed the record. The stubborn rider would not say "enough," but the horse was disposed to shy and refuse to make the leap.

Grant set his teeth and spurred at it, but just as the horse gathered for the sprint his swelling body burst the girth, and the rider and saddle tumbled into the ring.

Half stunned, Grant gathered himself up from the dust only to hear the "strident, comical voice" of Hershberger calling out:

Leather on Furniture Is Liable to Crack

Leather furniture, especially when placed near the register, is liable to dry and crack. An excellent method of keeping it from looking old and showing cracks is to go over the leather with a soft rag dipped in olive oil and then going over the whole surface again with a dry rag. It is not necessary to go over the leather more than once in three or four months, just enough to keep it soft.

TROOPS MOVED TO BOUNDARY IN FEAR OF WAR

Italy and Austria Said to Be Ready to Fly at Each Other.

ROME (Special)—That Italy and Austria are ready to fly at one another there is not the least doubt. Feverish excitement prevails here over the almost open breach which has arisen between the two countries over several questions, mainly that of the boundary.

This week Austria moved a large number of troops to a point near the boundary line, and immediately following this Italy hastened an equally large number to Rome as a check on the part of the Austrians.

Trouble between Italy and Austria has been brewing for some time. There have been many disputes, and it is said that Germany has done much to keep these two countries on the verge of war.

Should hostilities take place the whole of Europe would soon become embroiled in one seething mass of war and bloodshed owing to the many entangling alliances.

England is watching the situation very closely.

Daisy Mayme's Mission

WHEN Daysey Mayme Appleton came into this world she brought happiness with her, and, for five years, she let her parents remain in that deluded state; then she began their training.

"I was sent into this world with a mission," she told them, in actions long before she could use the words "and that was to bring you two up properly. It is a great responsibility to train parents, and I hope I have your assistance."

She took possession of the parlor when she was 10, and before she was 12 had reduced her father to such an apologetic state that he coughed behind his hand when in her presence. At 14 she began to weed out her mother's list of friends, as regularly as a truck gardener weeds a vegetable patch.

"It is important. We don't know many you seem to know," she explained, and there was no gainsaying Daysey Mayme.

At 16 she fell in love with a man she wouldn't have spoken to if he had come into her life when she was 20; and, in the next four years, was engaged so often that her mother began to mark her linen with all the letters in the alphabet to be on the safe side. She spent many hours looking out into the dark, and was more lonesome when with her family than when alone.

When she was very young she suspected her mother might have done better in her marriage, and now that she was 16 and old she knew it, and tried to make the best of her mother's bad bargain by making her father all over.

She had the prettiness of 16, and walked as if she owned the earth and was on her way to take possession.

During every one of her numerous marriage engagements, all the world was forgotten and she lived only for Him. At one time her father failed in business; she thought with only greater joy of the man who was to rescue her from a sinking ship. Her mother fell ill, but the Man was ill at the same time, so her mother's greater distress did not worry her. Through all the sorrow at home she stood aloof, not because she was selfish, but she was in love.

Nothing touched her, nothing distressed her, and nothing mattered so long as she had HIM.

She lost her prettiness as the years came, and began to get an expression on her face like that on the face of a clock that has stopped.

"This will never do," said Daysey Mayme, and as she had left love and romance behind, she went into uplift clubs and religion. It was at this period of her life that she transferred the Appleton family's hope of salvation from the humble church of which they had long been members, to a more aristocratic one, and introduced Lent into the home.

All of which explains why Daysey Mayme is particularly busy; she is making out a list of Lenten sacrifices for her father, mother and brother.

"It means so much to them," she said, "to have some one point out what they ought to give up."

Polishing Stove

If the kitchen stove is polished with a rag dipped into the blacking the fingers are bound to become much soiled, but if a blackboard eraser is used instead a good polish is the result and the fingers preserved from unsightly stains.

CRAWLING STONE LAKE.

(Its Floating Rock Once the Throne of the Great Spirit.

In the northern part of Wisconsin is a large lake whose waters abound in fish. In this lake there is also a great rock which floats in its waters. This rock, a writer in The Red Man is told by the Chippewa Indians, is a sacred monument to the great Manito.

Some are fast generation after generation the big green rock was at one time the throne of the Great Spirit. Here he sat and fixed the passage of the winds of the forest around and the waters of the lake. A tribe once lived on this rock and gradually they were swept away and for the Great Spirit had to go to a lower region.

Every summer the Indians hold dances on the rock where the rock stands. They pay its respects to the Manito when the Manito took his leave. They utter prayers and tobacco and place offerings on the rock so the Great Spirit does not get enough to eat in the other world he comes down and gets the food that is placed in his former subjects.

The rock is allowed to catch the fish. Of the fish some are put aside for the Great Spirit for the Indians only. The rest form a large pile. Do the rays of Indian Dan.

Of the Nuts, Nutty.

Bernard Shaw, although a vegetarian himself, does not fail to see the possibility of humor in the practice. Presiding recently at a meeting, he was called upon to introduce Sir Edward Lyon, who confess, had fled to nuts.

"And now," said Mr. Shaw, "I present to you Sir Edward Lyon, he of the earthy, earthy, and of the nuts nutty."—Ladies' Home Journal.

IS SERVICE ON BIG BATTLESHIPS MORE DANGEROUS?

Naval Board to Make Thorough Investigation of Conditions.

WASHINGTON (Special)—Are there more accidents in the United States navy than in any other navy? Are the men greater risks in service among the modern dreadnaughts than in a battleship of an equal size or grade?

These two questions have been placed before naval officers as persistently as late that they are determined to prove to the public the reliability and safety of battleship management by American naval officers.

Though evidence against the frequency of accidents in the same vein has been made that demand investigation, following the recent gallery explosion aboard the "Georgia" bringing to mind time and again the cry of "Remember Maine!" the crew of a battleship on the navy, a British naval expert, and that the frequency of accidents was due to the careless prevailing in the American navy of requiring officers to do house duty during as well as engineering, which preventing them from becoming experts in engineering or battleship management.

Concerning the accidents due to gun explosions, Sir Hiram Maxim an international authority upon explosives stated that the fault should be laid upon the kind of powder used in the United States navy.

The navy is fighting against such accusations with all its might and main. At the request of Secretary Meyer, the bureau of ordnance made an exhaustive study of the charges of Sir Hiram Maxim and submitted a report denying their truth.

The bureau laid the blame upon the types of guns, an evil which, they say, is now being eradicated and will soon disappear.

A special board of inquiry has been appointed to probe the question of certain gun explosions and ordnance accidents.

Upon every accident of a serious nature the navy department is appointing a board of examination to make an exhaustive report.

The naval officers defend themselves by saying that there are no more accidents in the United States navy than in any other, but that there are no navy in the world having such wide publicity to be given every detail of

They point out that the death of a few men in some factory accident is merely a matter of local interest, unnoticed upon only in the press of that neighborhood, whereas the national character of the navy causes the story of every accident aboard ship to be heralded in every corner of the country.

Other nations suppress the news of such accidents. The modern dreadnaught they say, is a huge and complicated floating machine shop. Even with every precaution there is always an element of danger under these circumstances, but they maintain that statistics, if they could be compiled, would prove that the enlisted man of the navy is more carefully protected than the civilian employee working under similar conditions.

It is very probable that some precise information upon this subject will be gathered by the navy department and published to show the true comparative extent of accidents in the United States navy. This idea is being seriously discussed at the navy department now.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

HOUSEWIVES SHOULD WEIGH EVERY PURCHASE

Women Should Demand Fair Measure, Not Bargains.

There was a crooked man
Had a little crooked measure;
He sold a crooked part of ten.

And smiled with crooked pleasure.
They taxed him with his crooked weights
And watched his crooked smile.
But all that he would answer was,
"Folks like the crooked style."

I HUMBLY apologize to the writer of "Mother Goose" for the above parody, which comes so forcibly to mind in these days when the bureau of municipal research is startling housewives with its revelations of short weight in food, and coal and ice to say nothing of the very bargains in the dry goods shops which our feminine hearts delight in.

I wonder how many houses where this is read have a set of kitchen scales. I wonder how many times purchases are weighed and accuracy of measurement demanded.

I have heard many excuses for the selling of short weight or short measure, and the most popular theory is that it is because women demand bargains. Then, if that is so, it is for the women to demand full measure and put an end to false bargains, isn't it?

It is so easy in these modern days to do our marketing and shopping by telephone that we may feel free to pursue our social duties, and it takes up such a lot of time to be "fussy over things," doesn't it?

And yet it is because women are neglectful of their household duties that short weight is possible. Of course a woman can't go out and weigh a ton of coal, but she can weigh the packages that come to the house from the grocery. She can weigh the meat, and she can pick out real quart boxes of berries if she buys them herself.

Did you ever compare the quart box bought at a reliable shop, at a fair price, with the "quart box" which the early hucksters are already beginning to bawl through the streets at bargain rates?

Did you ever stop to think how much the cost of living is increased by the fact that every pound of sugar that you buy, and which comes already tied up, you know, is perhaps one or two ounces short?

And did you ever — but there I might go on indefinitely telling of the "bargains" in ribbon—10 yards for 10 cents—which are usually about eight yards of the "special" in goods worth 25 cents a yard, and all the jewelers would give you posted as good as the real jewels the ground.

Of these perhaps the most glaring may be "an old saying, (or) are aiding to the old saying to have the largest and finest seed peas one must put them in the ground on Saint Patrick's day, the seventeenth of March.

The country housewife knows, however, that with the best predictions of an early spring she must not venture to set out her seeds until the cherry trees begin to blossom. Sweet alyssum, verbenas, lobelia, marigolds, cosmos, scarlet sage are only a few of the flowers which may be planted as soon as the frost is out of the ground, but perhaps these are the most familiar.

In planting these it is an old rule that the fine seeds should be sprinkled and the earth dusted over them, else the depth of ground over them will rot the tiny seed.

"So you are going to give a big house party for the pleasure of inviting the people you like?"

"No," replied Mrs. Cumrox, "for the pleasure of omitting from the list people I don't like."

"But why?"

"Rich men have so much competition."

NATURAL LINEN COVERS FOR DRESSING TABLE

Although bureau and dressing-table covers may be of almost any material, many of the prettiest are made of linen, embroidered by hand if made at home, or machine embroidered if bought in the shops.

These soil quickly, however, and those made of natural linen should be a boon to the busy housewife. A pretty pair of these were made of ecru linen, edged with buttonhole embroidery in white and a tendril design as a border. These are cool looking, and do not show the soil as readily as do the white ones.

Tea Table Cookies

Stir one-half cup of butter, seven tablespoons of powdered sugar and yolks of three eggs until creamy. Mix in one cup of almonds grated and one and one-half cups of finely sifted flour. Sprinkle the baking board with flour, roll out the dough to one-eighth inch thickness, cut with a round cutter, brush with yolk of egg and tablespoon of milk and bake on floured tins.

To Choose Lobsters

These are chosen more by weight than size. The heaviest are best. A good, small sized one will not infrequently be found to weigh as heavily as one much larger. If fresh a lobster will be lively and the claws have a strong motion when the eyes are pressed with the fingers.

Split Ends of Hair Should Be Singed

When the ends of the hair begin to split singeing it is often beneficial. If one does not wish to do this the ends may then be clipped, although singeing is probably the better of the two methods.

It is better not to try the singeing of one's own hair, but if it is done by another person and done carefully there will be no danger and the result will be beneficial.

Mend Lace Curtains

When lace curtains are torn during the laundering they may be mended by applying a piece with some thick mesh as the curtains with some thick boiled starch and then ironing with a moderately hot iron. The pieces scarcely show on close inspection, and when they are in the folds of the draping will be unnoticed. If the tear appears in a pattern a few stitches are taken, imitating the work.

Many Other Shades.

A dictionary is really required to know just what shade is meant by the new colors which fashion has decreed will be in vogue for spring.

The new names are gathered from those who have invented the blended dyes or are suggested by the two colors from which they are compounded.

Pink, for instance, the lovely new coral shade, which in this country is named "Helen pink," is in England now called "coronation coral" and in France "hunter."

It will be much seen this spring, while another new shade to be seen is "fodal," which is Persian blue shading to rich indigo.

"Boyard," of which we are now hearing so much, is a lovely soft shade of green, while "roseau" is another of the new gray greens that will be so fashionable this season.

"Ombre," a new color for evening gowns, is really only a slightly deeper shade of the popular champagne color, while "suede," as its name implies, is of a grayish brown, close to taupe.

"Fumarou," which gathers its name from smoke, is much the same shade of gray, as that entitled "London smoke," except that instead of the brownish tint in it it has a pearly light to the shading.

Another new gray, this time with purple tones to it, is "lavandre," while cerise and "American beauty" shades masquerade this spring as "Valois color."

Descriptions of the other shades to be fashionable this year include:

Cattleya—Azalea, a reddish purple in all its shades.

Violette des Bois — Bluish purple, clematis.

Alexan — Lucerne blue, diel with greenish shade, sometimes called sky blue.

Sacre—The pinkish red of the begonia.

Roxerale—A yellowish pink.

WILL SOON BE TIME TO START GARDENS

WAKING to the song of the birds, the commuter is forcibly reminded that soon he must bring home seeds and roots to plant in his flower and kitchen garden. Already, however, some of the enterprising out-of-town dwellers, who wish to take advantage of the first days of spring, are taking home their gardening implements, rakes, spades and hoes, occasionally we spy peeping out of the top of the basket a small package of garden seeds, perhaps the most popular of which are peas, one must put them in the ground on Saint Patrick's day, the seventeenth of March.

The country housewife knows, however, that with the best predictions of an early spring she must not venture to set out her seeds until the cherry trees begin to blossom. Sweet alyssum, verbenas, lobelia, marigolds, cosmos, scarlet sage are only a few of the flowers which may be planted as soon as the frost is out of the ground, but perhaps these are the most familiar.
